

ABSTRACT

An immunopotentiator for enhancing an immunoactivity of mammals is characterized by comprising as an active ingredient a nucleic acid containing a special nucleic acid base, a derivative thereof or a plasmid having the nucleic acid containing the special nucleic acid base.